Workforce Investment Act (WIA)

This program is designed to help persons vocationally displaced who are economically disadvantaged.

Alabama's Career Center Systems was developed to address the WIA principle requiring a One-Stop system of delivering services to customers. This system was designed to offer a variety of services to customers through coordinated efforts of several agencies including the Alabama Department of Economic and Community Affairs (ADECA), the Alabama Department of Industrial Relations (DIR), the Alabama Department of Rehabilitation Services (DRS), the Alabama Department of Education/Adult Education, the Alabama Department of Human Resources (DHR), the Alabama Department of Senior Services, the Alabama Department of Postsecondary Education, and Housing and Urban Development (HUD) Employment and Training Activities. Linkages and partnerships among agencies result in a cost-efficient, seamless environment for those customers who desire services.

Customers, as defined in WIA, are job seekers and employers. Job seekers receive services such as training, education, and other employment-related services depending upon their individual need. Employers have a single point of contact to provide information about current and future skills needed by their workers and to list job openings. One of the benefits to employers that this system offers is helping them find ready skilled workers who meet their needs.

For further information, please contact the North Alabama Skills Center at 381-0611 (Shoals area) or 332-7672 (Russellville area).

Upward Bound Program

The purpose of this program is to generate in its participants additional academic and motivational skills necessary for success in secondary and postsecondary education. Program participants are selected from area high schools based on criteria mandated by the U.S. Department of Education.

The Upward Bound Program consists of an academic component and a summer component. The academic component focuses on cultural enrichment and supplemental support to assist the students in subject areas in which they may experience the most difficulty (tutoring sessions). The summer component consists of a six-week residential program which focuses on exposing program participants to college life, and obtaining some college credit.

For further information, please contact the Phil Campbell Campus at 331-6277 or the Shoals Campus at 331-5357.

Southeastern Anthropological Institute

The Southeastern Anthropological Institute (SAI), housed on the Shoals campus of Northwest-Shoals Community College, was conceptualized in the summer of 2005 and formed as a result of all its principal founders' dedication to research and education pertaining to Southeastern Indians. SAI was incorporated as a non-profit in the State of Alabama on February 8, 2006. SAI is developing programs to create an awareness and understanding of Southeastern Indian history and culture through education, outreach, and research and to bring these elements together in one location. SAI is developing programs dedicated to education through teacher workshops, summer camps, and classroom presentations. Permanent exhibits and traveling exhibits pertaining to Southeastern Indian history, arts, culture, and languages will be developed. Outreach to Southeastern affiliated tribes and their participation in SAI programs is very important. SAI is currently involved in archaeological site projects, archaeological site preservation, artifact preservation, mapping of Indian Removal routes of 1838, digital imaging of artifacts and historically significant primary source documents.

The Southeastern Anthropological Institute was formed by Native American educators, archaeologists, anthropologists, and artists, all working together to ensure and enhance the participation of the Native American community in historical and anthropological studies related to Southeastern Indian cultures, past and present. Removal of the Cherokees, Chickasaws, Choctaws, Creeks, and Seminoles, commonly known as the Trail of Tears (1830-1840) is a major focus of the museum archives and library. The archives and library will house a comprehensive collection of published books and manuscripts, military records, primary source documents, rolls and census records, and nineteenth century maps. The museum will provide a visual look at the Trail of Tears in all of its aspects. As such SAI is especially well suited for effectively conducting educational, outreach, and research programs for and with Native Americans, teachers, scholars, students of all ages, and the general public.
